

Industrial clergy, are against the Young Turks.
Enver Bey's following, adds the dispatch, consists of several hundred officers infatuated by the cry: "Liberation of sacred places!" and these very men are likely to turn against the Young Turks if they do not succeed in saving Adrianople.

Note Is Delayed.
Constantinople, January 25.—Drafting of the Turkish reply to the powers has been delayed owing to the difficulty of finding a permanent occupant for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, which was filled only temporarily when the new Cabinet was formed. Osman Nisami Pasha, the Turkish ambassador at Berlin, is the latest statement to refuse the office. It is believed now that Ibrahim Hakki Pasha, a former Grand Vizier, who was threatened with impeachment on account of the alleged unpreparedness of Turkey for the war with Italy, will accept the post.

Reports Capital Quiet.
Washington, January 25.—Ambassador Rockhill at Constantinople, reports the Turkish capital quiet, despite the incident which resulted in the overthrow of the ministry and the killing of Nisami Pasha.
Mr. Rockhill says the new government has given assurances that all necessary measures have been taken to guarantee the safety of persons and property. He adds that there is no reason to believe that there is any likelihood of an early date and that the resumption of hostilities will not necessarily result from the coup d'état.

Wilson May Ask Recall.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Washington, January 25.—Chairman Adamson of the House Commerce Committee, declared that he is largely because of the "gross neglect of the affairs of their companies by the individual stockholders, that officers and directors of corporations have in so many instances utterly lost sight of their true relation and used their official position and opportunities to enrich themselves, without regard to the interests of the stockholders, whose agents they were."

After all, added the Attorney General, "the underlying philosophy of the modern so-called 'economic legislation' of which the Sherman antitrust law is a conspicuous example, is very simple. It is merely to prevent a small group of people from compelling others by force, violence, fraud or unfair means, from exercising their rights as free men to pursue their vocation in such lawful manner as they think best."

Ten lives have been lost at that point in the past few years. The company has already announced its intention to safeguard the crossing as soon as the desires of the supervisors are known.

With Southside Police.
Cruelty to animals was the charge lodged against Isaac Morgan, colored, who was arrested yesterday morning by Captain A. S. The man is charged with disorderly conduct on a Richmond-Petersburg electric car near Chester.

Now Oppose Annexation.
Opposition to becoming a part of the city of Richmond has cropped up in the Southside suburbs. NOTED MEN PAY TRIBUTE TO FIGHT ON "SYSTEM"
New York, January 25.—The "system," as the various combined forces for evil in New York have been called, and the part it plays in the corruption of youth, were described by Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss to-night at a dinner given in his honor by several hundred representatives of citizens. Supreme Court Justice Hughes, Andrew Carnegie and other noted men paid tribute to the prosecution of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and the Rosenthal case gambler.
"The system," cares nothing about differences of race, religious faith or politics," declared Mr. Moss. "Its members work together for their mutual protection. They draw to themselves young men and women, the boys and girls—taking them even out of our public schools. They corrupt them; they add them to their numbers and army of crime and vice grows in numbers and in solidarity."

FLOOD OF INQUIRIES
POURS IN ON MOORE
Washington, January 25.—Unseasonably warm and wet weather in all parts of the country has caused a flood of correspondence to pour in on Professor Willis L. Moore, chief of the Weather Bureau.
A young woman in a small town in Virginia was inquiring what the weather would be on two certain days in April, expressing the hope that both would be bright and cheerful. She naively closed her letter with the statement that she was to be married on the second day.
A youth in New York City wrote for a special forecast as to when there would be ice in the vicinity of his city. He said he had received a new pair of skates as a Christmas present and wanted to try them.

IN MEMORIAM.
In Memoriam.
FISCHER—In sad, but loving remembrance of my devoted mother, MRS. A. THERINE M. FISCHER, who departed this life one year ago, January 25, 1912.
One year has passed, and still I miss her. Friends may think the wound is healed, but I still feel the pain.
But little they know the sorrow.
That's within my heart concealed.
Devoted daughter,
MARY E. LONG.

WALDROP—In sad but loving remembrance of my mother, ANN REBECCA WALDROP, who departed this life five years ago, January 24, 1908.
Call not back the dead departed.
Anchored safe, where storms are o'er;
On the borderland we left you,
Soon to meet and part no more.
When we leave this world of changes;
When we leave this world of care,
We shall find those gone before us,
In our Father's mansion fair.
By her Daughter,
MRS. MYRTLE E. FIOG.

MILLER—In memory of our dear mother, MRS. EMMA F. MILLER, wife of Louis S. Miller, who died at her late residence, 706 North Twenty-sixth Street, December 26, 1912.
Our mother is sleeping, so free from all pain.
Oh, wake her not, sweet Spirit, to suffer again.
She is resting so sweetly, O let her rest on.
Her sickness is ended, her trouble all gone.
Oh, think how she moaned and suffered with pain, hours as we soothed her in vain.
In the long night hours as we soothed her in vain.
Till God, in His mercy, sent down an angel that whispered a message of love.
Have you a mother? Love her well while she is spared on earth.
Wait not till death has called her hence.
To know her precious worth.
Her languishing head is now at rest.
Her thoughts and aching are o'er.
Her quiet dear, unmovable breast is heaved by angels no more.
BY HER HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

SELDEN—In sad but loving remembrance of our devoted mother, CO-DELIA ALLEN SELDEN, who died January 25, 1912, one year ago.
"Asleep in Jesus."
